CHRISTMAS.

Along about December,
When winds begin to blow,
And arctics quit the camphor,
And girls buy mistletoe:
When advertisers wheedle,
And folks a-shopping go--
It's then that men of family
Groan in financial woe,
Yet smile with due docility,
Though bank account be low,
When solemnly presented with
A bargain-bought chapeau.

REMEMBER THIS, WALTER.

First Stude: "Have we any all-American material in Lehigh this year?"

Second Stude: "Well, from the showing of our assistant managers at secret practice, some of them ought to have a chance for guard."

Both the Collegian and the Puritan believe dancing is hugging set to music. The difference arises from their notions of correction. The Puritan would abolish the hugging, the Collegian the music.

BAD ENOUGH.

Stude I: "What's the trouble, Jack? You're looking awfully low."

Stude II: "I just had a terrible operation."

Stude I: "Yeah, what was it?"

Stude II: "I had my allowance cut off."

WITH PLEASURE.

During the last few months, a lady living near one of the encampments desired to entertain one of the officers and sent him this note:

"Mrs. Smith requests the pleasure of Captain Jones' company at dinner Wednesday evening."

A day or two later, she received this reply:

"With the exception of the men in the guard house, Captain Jones' company will come with pleasure."

DIFFERENCE OF TERMS.

Frosh: "I think I'll buy my girl one of those forgiveness boxes."

Soph: "What do you mean, forgiveness box? Why they are vanity cases."

Frosh: "Oh, yes, I knew they were something they made up with."

TAKE HEED.

MY DEAR editor:
WILL YOU print this
AND WHEN IT is printed,
SEND A COPY
TO the fellow
WHO SELLS fruit
AND stuff
ON THE P. and R. train
AND CHARGE IT to me?
THE OTHER NIGHT
I WAS riding down to Philly
WITH A GOOD looking girl
AND I HAD four cents
IN MY pocket.
AND THIS FELLOW came through
WITH SOME oranges
AND stopped at my seat
AND JUST STOOD there
INSINUATINGLY.
AND I got red in the face
AND A DROP of perspiration
DROPPED IN my eye
AND I couldn't see.
AND HE STOOD there,
AND I got redder,
AND WHEN WE got to Philly,
HE WAS STILL STANDING there
AND I WOULD like to know,
IF HE DID IT for meanness,
OR IF HE GOT a stroke,
WHEN HE REACHED my seat.
THANKS.

FAMOUS SAYINGS

SOME GIRL.

She wore her silk pajamas in the summer when
'twas hot,
She wore her flannel nightie in the winter
when 'twas not.
And sometimes so they say in both the spring
time and the fall,
She'd climb right in between the sheets with nothing on at all. —Old Stuff.

WORTH IT.

Jimmy: "See that girl there on the beach?
She gets ten thousand dollars a year posing for artists."

Johnny: "That's some figure."

IT USED TO BE.

Booze, booze, you're my guest,
You often keep me from my rest;
You often make my friends my foes:
You often make me wear old clothes:
But as you are so near my nose---
Tip her up, pals, and down she goes.

WHITE LIES OF THE SHOPGIRL
AT CHRISTMAS-TIME.

WHY DOES THE OLD BOY ALWAYS SPRINT ON THIS STRETCH?

IT CAN'T BE DONE.

NOT YET BUT SOON.

*Oh, when they took our beer away,
And likewise took our wine,
And said that evermore we'd stay
As dry as crusted brine;
I've said: "On with the dance. Let's jazz
Our heels if not our brains.
Call out the bands and let them play
Their twirling, whirling strains."*

*But all the sad ones listened in,
And said, "That awful noise
Is steeped in ecstasy and sin--
'Twill ruin girls and boys."
And while we raved at bursting bombs
And called our statesmen loons,
Dear Congress sat till half past eight
And censored dancing tunes.*

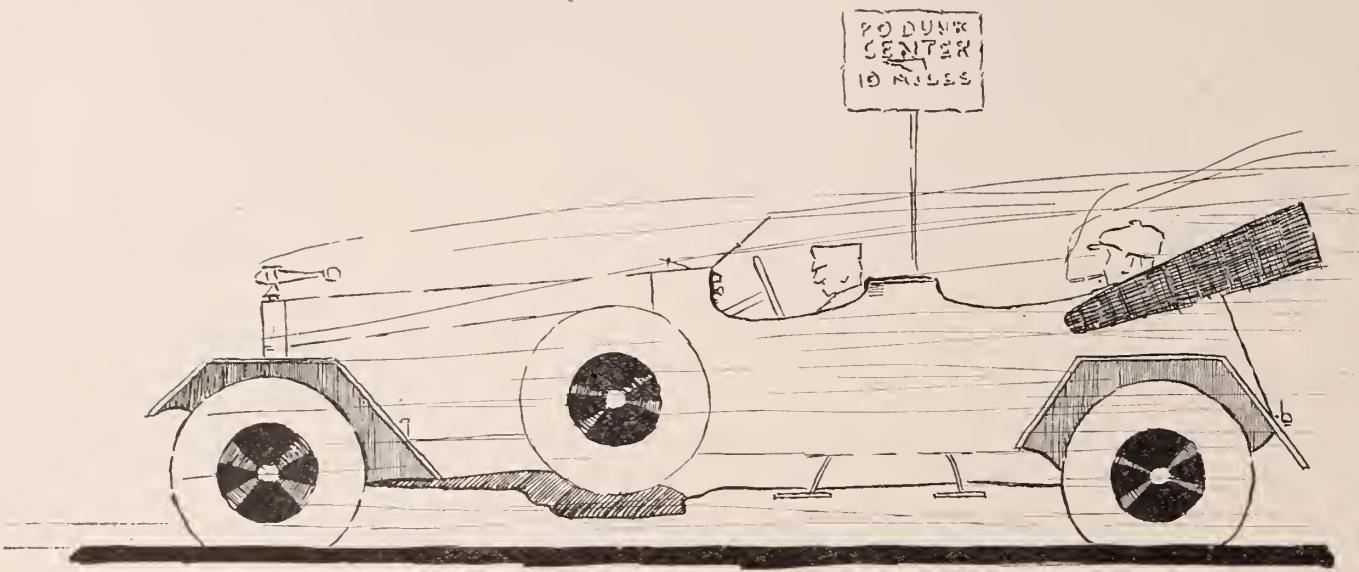

*Oh, when the world is clean and nice,
And ironed from end to end--
And scrubbed of every petty vice,
With nothing left to mend.
Oh, tie me to a reckless blimp
That tugs its moorings free,
And let me sail beyond the pale,
Of human liberty.*

I do not aim
For wealth or fame,
Or any of the usual things.
I do not care
For any share
In politician's inside rings.

I crave no part
In modern art,
Nor would I be a movie star,
Nor fain would boast
To run the most
Of miles per gallon in my car.

I make no prayer
For any flare
Of social favor or position.
Indeed I fear.
And yet. And yet.
I'm almost quite without ambition.

And yet. And yet.
Would I could get
One boon from fate, beyond all prizing.
One suit of clothes
To look like those
They picture in the advertising.

BITING.

"My," exclaimed Mr. Klumsay at the Sophomore Cotillion, "this floor's awfully slippery. It's hard to keep on your feet."

"Oh," replied the fair partner, sarcastically, "then you were really trying to keep on my feet? I thought it was purely accidental."

Marian: "Did you go to the Cotillion this year?"

Adele: "No! Mother wouldn't allow me to!"

Renee: "Why not?"

Adele: "Oh! Those dances at Lehigh last till nearly ten o'clock."

DECEMBER 1919.

NUMBER THREE

Published monthly by the students of Lehigh University. Subscription two dollars and a half, or two dollars if paid before December 1st. Single copies, twenty-five cents. Address communications to the Editor, Bethlehem, Pa. All business communications to Edward A. Mooers, Psi Upsilon House, University Campus. Entered at the Bethlehem Post Office as second class matter.

THE football season is a thing of the past; by the time BURRO'S Christmas attempt appears winter will have closed down upon us. But there is much in college that needs our attention and consideration. Of the sports, basketball, wrestling and swimming are with us and should receive the backing of the student body.

A year ago, a great clamor went up when it was decided that midweek games should stop. A cry to heaven issued from every throat, and we thought we were being maltreated. Upon reconsideration, it was decided that all midweek games should not be stricken from the schedules, but that the number should be limited. This reconsideration appeased the anger of the college body somewhat, but recently we have heard rumblings of the same sort.

BURRO would like to know how much the student body has actually thought of their ill-treatment; how much they have reflected as to the question of who was really at fault. We have noticed in past winters that the attendance at the midweek games was pitiful and that even the games and meets scheduled for Saturdays were not as well attended as they should have been, except in the case where a crack team represented our opponent. The same faces appeared game after game, the same men stayed away and the latter were in the majority. But when the powers that be decided that such games were not a paying proposition and that it was hardly worth the trouble of bringing other teams here, immediately a loud protest went up from all men, including those who never even took the trouble to walk to Taylor gym., when such a game was scheduled. No, the students were the ones that were being abused; they forgot the other side of the question.

College spirit finds its greatest expression undoubtedly in football. But there is no reason why with the close of the football season, the college body should dig in and go to sleep for the winter. The college body has lost an important privilege by the restriction placed upon these games, but they must remember that they brought it upon themselves by failing to recognize that privilege when they held it. By the backing of the student body during the coming winter will the policy of the Athletic Committee in the future be molded; if they show that they are earnestly back of these teams with their physical as well as their moral support, the Committee may see fit to bring back these games as before; if not, the privilege may be withdrawn entirely.

Unfair criticism has been the downfall of more than one good system. Too often have we sat in front of our fires and voiced our ideas of what should be, without directing our attention to our own selves, wherein perhaps a great deal of the fault may have lain. A good coach with a crack team in both the major sports of basketball and wrestling warrant our full backing, but they cannot hope to be successful without the realization of the fact that every man in the University is back of them. Think it over.

BURRO has devoted some space in its editorial columns of previous numbers to the question of the Honor System, and hesitates to be droning over the same story too often. But we feel that it is well worth the few lines, and so the keys of the editor's typewriter flash into action once more.

At the beginning of the college year, the Arcadia made it a point to explain the Honor System fully to the student body for there seemed to be a great deal of misunderstanding about the matter, and a special effort was made to explain it clearly and fully to the members of the freshman class. To all who had ears that could understand the language, the attitude of the Arcadia seemed clear, but there were some, who, as are always found in a body such as our student body paid neither attention nor respect to what was said.

The stand of the Arcadia was tested. An ideal case was brought up, in which two men were concerned; the case was handled from beginning to end by students, and the teaching force had no knowledge of it until the men had been tried and found guilty. In justice to them, we say that there was but little complaint on their part, they pleaded guilty to the wrong and were willing to abide by the penalty that was imposed upon them. But they, too, evidently had mistaken the attitude of the Arcadia, they probably looked upon the Arcadia as it has been looked upon at times in the past, a figurehead which only moved to action, when spurred on by a faculty report on such a case. The argument seems clear, else why would they have broken the Honor System. We do not aim to damn them by these words; the purpose of this editorial is to bring home to the student body the fact that the Honor System is in force, that there are men in college who feel personal honor sufficiently to report another when he is guilty of such an offense and who are willing to testify before their fellows of the fact, and we want to bring home the fact, that the Arcadia is going to enforce the system, no matter who comes before that body.

If personal honor were at that high point which is its ideal, at the point where a man would never have to be reported for cheating, at the point, where if he were caught and realized that he was marked in the eyes of his fellows as a cheater, he would immediately leave of his own volition there would be no necessity for the Arcadia ever to sit as an honor court; once discovered the man would leave college, not able to stand the disdain of his fellow-students. Till that time, we will have to have an Honor Court, we will have to have the disagreeable task of trying men for violating their own honor, and in the case of guilt, we will have to enforce the penalty, unpleasant and distasteful though it may be.

EDITORIAL columns are usually devoted to the bigger questions of college life, than the one about which we are to write. But as this has found mention in previous years in both our own columns and that of our contemporary, we feel justified in speaking of the fact.

It seems that every year, the upper-classmen have to be warned not to abuse their privilege of walking on the grass. With an extremely rainy fall and consequent soft ground, many new paths have been worn or at least begun, in places where they will prove to be an eyesore. Lehigh has long been proud to boast of her campus, and our boast has not been an idle one, for praise has come from many who know what they are talking about. It seems pitiful that the members of the two upper classes, then, will so abuse their privilege, that the beauty of the campus is in part destroyed.

Walking on the grass is more or less a habit. Our first two years of college passed without a great deal of discomfort resulting from not being able to enjoy this privilege: surely we could so direct our steps on the campus, that without going out of our way, we could keep off the grass to some extent.

AT the opening of the college in September, BURRO issued a call for candidates for her various staffs. The response to the editorial and art work has been very weak, and the work that has appeared in these pages has been that of the Board, not of the competition.

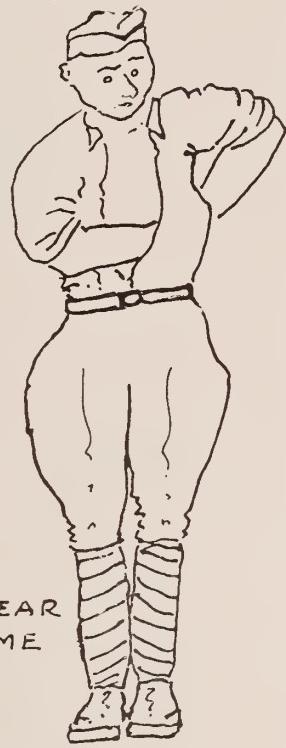

We feel that there are men in college, especially among the freshman class, who have some talent along these lines and for that reason, wish to announce that another competition will open after the Christmas holidays. Details will be published at a later date; the fact that there will be a competition offers something which should be kept in mind.

PHILOSOPHY.

*I love to ride in a touring car,
And zip on the old stone road;
I love to tour the burgs afar,
And joke with the merry load.*

*I love to see the trees whiz by,
And hear the motor hum;
I love the rumble as on we fly,
With the sound of a kettle drum.*

*I love the rush of the bracing air,
And the feeling of joy it brings:
It's sport that's far beyond compare,
A sport that is fit for kings.*

*It's the jolliest thing I know by far,
And my heart with rapture melts;
I love to ride in a touring car,
When it's owned by someone else.*

NORTH WINDS WILL BLOW.

KNOWLEDGE IS POWER.

The buyer goes to gay Paree
The style in woman's clothes to see,
And with our own compare 'em;
And as the model 'round him flits,
In backless gowns replete with slits,
He says: "I know they will not sell
At home, because they look like--well,
They simply wouldn't wear 'em."

THEY COME AND LEARN.

First Frosh: "Who is this Bishop Thorpe,
I've heard so much about?"

Second Frosh: "Why, he's the Bisop who has charge of a girl's school in Bethlehem."

PRESUMPTION.

Late Comer (at the Lafayette football game):
"Would you object to moving up a little to make room?"

Chilled Student: "What, after I have sat here half an hour warming this seat?"

BURRO was puzzled the other evening,
when we saw an animated cartoon of Happy
Hooligan, and noticed at the same time that the film was released by the EDUCATIONAL Film Corporation.

We wonder how long it will be before the reading of Sunday Comic sheets will be included in the curriculum of our schools.

OUR CONFIDENTIAL BUREAU.

"My husband is going out with another woman all the time. What can I do to keep him home nights?" ---- Mrs. Brown.

Take the other woman in as a boarder.

WHAT CHRISTMAS MEANS TO—### EVIDENT.

Just before a big football game, the college correspondents write in:

"The Siwash team had no trouble breaking up the Hoosegow plays used by the scrubs."

"The Hoosegow team had no trouble breaking up the Siwash plays used by the scrubs."

It makes a difference when they get together and the scrubs from both colleges are out of it.

GREAT STUFF.

First Frosh: "Which end of a street car are you supposed to get off?"

Second Frosh: "It really makes no difference, both ends stop."

Blessed are those who receive no letter from the faculty, for they shall receive their degree.

YES, YES.

"Don't let reversals in early life discourage you, my son," counselled the wise parent. "Many a famous artist failed to get a start until his funds had become so low that he was unable to properly clothe his models."

AS HE SAID TO HER.

A smile ahead
And two in
The driver's seat.
For smileage and for mileage
Double seats can't be beat.

CURSES.

*Christmas comes but once a year,
It always brings us much good cheer,
But sadness will be here this year,
What will we do without our beer?*

CHRISTMAS VACATION DOWN THE HILL AND BACK.

IN THE SUPPLY BUREAU.

Stude: "Have you a book of synonyms?"
Student Clerk: "I'll see." (to Mr. Bursar).
"Do we carry Mr. Synonym's works?"

TRUE, TRUE.

One swallow does not make a summer, to be sure, but two or three swallows make some fellows think they are birds.

THINGS WE NEVER DO.

Take "the family" to the Commons.
Make calls at Fem. Sem.
Study on the night of a smoker.
Take the girl to the "Collie".
Fail to mention our athletic teams in our home letters.
Throw away our copy of the Burr.

OH, THAT TREATY.

Whiz: "Who is the world's champion bull fighter?"

Bang: "The honors are divided among the United States Senators"

THAT WILL DO.

"I asked the boss for an increase in salary. Told him I couldn't live on the sum I was getting."

"What did he say?"

"Told me it was a business, not a life-saving institution he was running."

WAR PRODUCTS.

Mrs. Newly Rich: "Have all flowers Latin names?"

Botanist: "Yes, madame."

Mrs. N. R.: "Even the common ones?"

Botanist: "Yes, madame."

Mrs. N. R.: "Ain't nature grand?"

OUR STENOGRAPHER SAYS:--

Who takes the pleasure out of life and makes existence hell?

Who fires a real good-looking one because she cannot spell?

Who substitutes a dictaphone for a coral-tinted ear?

CHRISTMAS TIME.

WAITING AT THE HOME TOWN
STATION FOR HER COLLEGE DARLING.

BLIND LOVE.

Pymalian: "This, my dear, is going to be the finest thing I have ever done. It is to be my ideal of female loveliness."

Galatea: "Oh, honey darling, are you beginning to tire of me already?"

FICKLE, FICKLE.

"So our engagement is at an end?" queried the blond youth.

"It certainly is," replied the fickle brunette. "I suppose you will return the engagement ring?"

"I certainly will if you will call around some night and pick it out."

IN ECONOMIC GEOGRAPHY.

Professor: "What is the principal state of Mexico?"

Simple Soph: "State of turmoil."

CUTTING.

She: "You know, Jack, I always speak as I think."

He: "Yes, dear, - only oftener."

'TIS TRUE.

Student: "There goes our second backfield into the game."

Half-Stude (an Algebra shark): "No, that's our first prime."

FIVE TIMES I HAVE LIED.

Once when I was arrested.

Once when I disappeared for two days.

Once when a girl wished to know why I was late.

Once when I went to the opera.

Once when a professor asked me how I liked his course. —Tiger.

INSTANTLY RECOGNIZED.

He: "I love the good, the true, the beautiful, the innocent--"

She: "This is rather sudden, but I think father will consent."

TOO TRUE.

Student after studying Fisher's painting "The Time, Place and Girl" was heard to remark:

"Yes, the time and the place are always just around the corner but unfortunately the girl is usually somewhere else."

IN THE BUSINESS COURSE.

"Give for one year, the number of tons of coal shipped out of the United States."
"1492: None."

MORE TRUTH THAN FICTION.

Loafer (after begging persistently to carry student's bag): "Do you think I should plead with you like this if I had any money?"

Student: "Do you suppose I should carry the thing myself if I had?"

MEMORIES.

1918 (at the bar): "Here's how."
1919 (ditto): "How?"

THE REASON FOR THE EXPOSURE OF MANY MANLY BREASTS TO THE WINTRY WINDS.

CHANT OF THE W.C.T.U.

We're for abolishing all sinful devices,
Against nicotine we voice a protest:
Down with gift cigars and alcoholic ices,
Brandy sauce, this Christmas, is taboo with the rest.

We will not countenance potations, we repeat:
All player-pianos we ban rigidly;
For tunes intoxicate and tempt wayward feet,
Gift garments diaphonous, we do not wish to see.

Item: There still exist in Eastern Timbuctoo
Practices doubtful, we have lately learned:
We'll send our agent the spectacle to view,
If there is no further business, the session is adjourned.

GOOD INTENTIONS.

Officer (engaged in drawing up a will for a buck about to go overseas): "But, Murphy, you surely haven't got all this money to leave to your realitives."

Murphy: "Oh, that's all right, sir. I just wanted to impress them with my good will."

NO MISUNDERSTANDING.

Frosh: "Do you know, your sister puts on airs?"

Sweet Young Thing: "Sir, I'll have you understand she doesn't put on anything."

AS HAMLET MIGHT HAVE PUT IT.

To join the League or not to join,
That is the question:
Whether 'tis nobler to embroil ourselves
In endless foreign strife,
Or heed the advice of our fore-fathers;
To concern ourselves with such ills as we have,
And not take on others,
That we know not of.

BRIDGE TERMS.

DISMISSED.

"Look here, I ask you for the last time for that five dollar bill you owe me."

"Thank heavens, that is the end of that silly question."

OH, MOTHER.

Mother: "Did that young man kiss you last night?"

Daughter: "Now, Mother, do you suppose he came all the way out here to hear me sing?"

BATTING TRUE.

Officer of the day (recognizing an old offender): "So, Smith, back again? What brought you here this time?"

Smith: "Two of the guards, sir."

Officer: "Drunk, I suppose?"

Smith: "Yes, sir, both of them."

IF UNCLE SAM CLOTHES THE R.O.T.C.
AS HE DID THE S.A.T.C.- -

CAN YOU EXPLAIN?

Why is it that youth regards a woman and wishes he were older, and old man regards a girl and wishes he were younger?

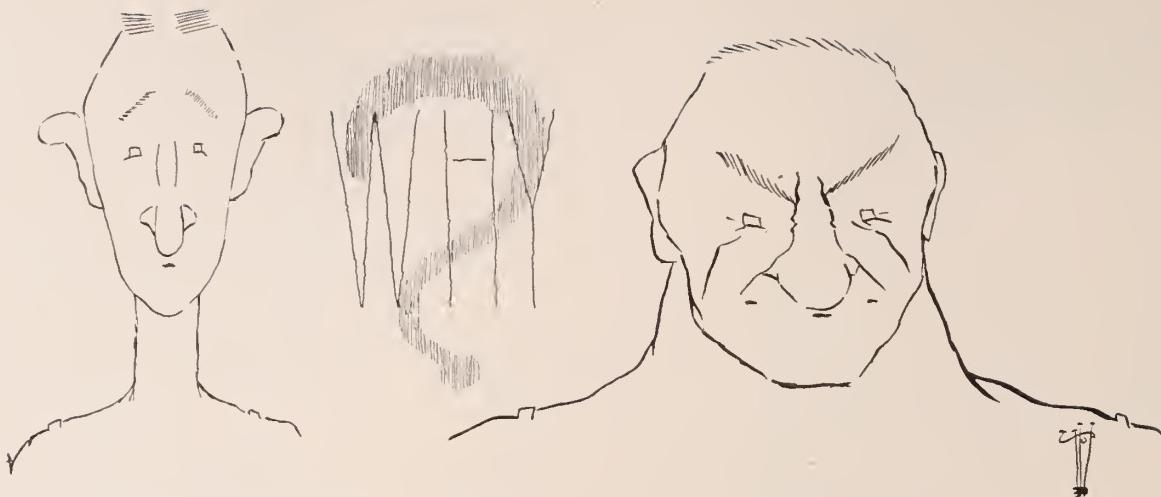

Speaker at the Discussion Group Meeting -- "The Bible says that we should love our neighbors."

Frosh (timidly) -- "But, er, they didn't live in dormitories then, did they?"

AT THE HOUSE PARTY AN INVITATION FOR A DANCE.

WHY DOES THE FIRST FRESHMAN GO OUT FOR WRESTLING AND THE SECOND FOR HANDBALL?

UP-TO-DATE.

The Modern Version: -- Strike while the iron is cold.

WHAT SAY, SIR ISAAC?

"Say, dad, what keeps us from falling off the earth when we are upside down?"

"Why, the law of gravity, of course."

"Well, how did folks stay on before the law was passed?"

PRACTICE MAKES PERFECT.

"It's a poor rule that won't work both ways", they say. But we have seen some pretty effective paddles that worked on the forward stroke only.

BE CAREFUL.

"Did you see daughter's bathing suit?" asked mother.

"No," answered father, "I scarcely noticed the bathing suit."

EMBARRASSING.

He (in department store): "Er -- where can I find lady's garters?"

The feminine clerk: "Oh, sir, can't you guess?"

WHAT A COME-DOWN.

Elaine (elatedly): "Jack just told me that I was an awful vamp."

Lucille (sweetly): "Well, don't give up. It takes time and experience to become proficient."

GOOD ODDS.

EVIDENCE OF THE FACT.

"Ella's new photo must be a very good likeness."

"Why?"

"She's had it two days, and hasn't shown it to anyone."

CARELESS OF HIM.

Walter: "Mr. Smith has left his umbrella again. I do believe he would leave his head if it were loose."

Robert: "I daresay you're right. I heard him say only yesterday he was going to Switzerland for his lungs."

HERO WORSHIP.

Frosh: "Say, I think you're the finest looking man I ever saw."

Senior: "I'm sorry I can't return the compliment."

OH, PROHIBITION.

"We can find no lady with the qualifications to christen this ship."

"And what are they?"

"Anyone will do, who has a bottle of champagne."

CAUTIOUS.

"Shall I drink anytime I feel like it or just before meals?"

"Well," replied the doctor, "that's according to how much you have in your cellar."

KNOCKOUT.

"I've often wondered why my wife accepted me?"

"Didn't you tell me once that she had simple tastes?"

A Gateway—Electrical

ONLY a forty-foot gateway bounded by two brick pilasters and ornamental lamps, but unlike any other gateway in the entire world.

For back of it is the General Electric Company's main office building, accommodating 2300 employees. And just next door is its laboratory with the best equipment for testing, standardizing and research at the command of capable engineers. Then down the street—a mile long—are other buildings where everything electrical, from the smallest lamp socket to the huge turbines for electrically propelled battleships, is made by the 20,000 electrical workers who daily stream through.

What a story this gate would tell, if it could, of the leaders of the electrical industry and business, of ambassadors from other institutions and from foreign lands.

The story would be the history of electric lighting, electric transportation, electric industries and electricity in the home.

This gateway, as well as the research, engineering, manufacturing and commercial resources back of it, is open to all who are working for the betterment of the electrical industry.
